

REPORT 'MARCH OF DIMES' FUND FROM THEATRES

Adams county theatres collected $1,334.30 during the recent March of Dimes campaign, according to Sydney J. Poppay, county theatre chairman. This was an increase of $571.77 over the collections last year.

The two theatres in Gettysburg, the Majestic and Strand, collected $904.88 and $131.01, respectively. Mr. Poppay, manager, stated.

According to figures released by W. H. Snyder, Jr., manager of the Earle theatre, New Oxford, $141.51 was collected in that house.

County Gets Half

Kenneth Kroh, manager of the Regent theatre in Littlestown, reported collections of $157 in his house.

Checks in the following amounts, representing half of the money collected, have been turned over to Fred G. Pfeffer, treasurer of the county Infants Paralysis chapter: Majestic and Strand, $517.95; Earl, New Oxford, $70.61, and Regent, $78.50. The other half of the money collected went to the national fund.

Mr. Poppay was loud in his praise of the assistance given by Mrs. S. Richard Eisenhart, Baltimore street, who arranged for groups of girls to assist with the collections in the four county theatres. Mr. Poppay stated that he is certain the success of the campaign in the theatres was due to the splendid cooperation of the girls who were on hand for all evening collections.

Hit Medical Care Given War Veterans

Chicago, March 28 (AP)—Declaring that medical care for veterans appears "especially poor" compared with that in the armed forces, the Journal of the American Medical Association today suggested an independent investigation by a committee reporting directly to President Roosevelt.

A continuous flow of charges comes from a variety of investigators, commentators, periodicals and publications whose observations have led them to believe that medical care in the Veterans Administration is on a standard far lower than that prevailing in ordinary practice in the United States," the Journal said in an editorial.

"The deteriorated service seems especially poor when contrasted with the high quality of medical care rendered to those in the armed forces."

Local Driver In 3-Way Auto Crash

The operator of one of three vehicles, which figured in an accident last Saturday at 5:30 p. m. on the Lincoln highway west of York, in the vicinity of the Ten Mile house, will be arrested by Pennsylvania state police.

M. A. Swartz, Thomasville R. 1, was attempting to enter the Lincoln highway from a parking lot adjacent to the Ten Mile hotel. He had crossed the north lane of traffic when a truck, traveling westwardly on the highway, approached. In order to avoid a collision, the truck driver swerved his vehicle to the right, and passed the Swartz car in the rear.

Charles E. Swisher, Gettysburg, was operating his automobile in the same direction of the truck. When he saw the driver of the truck apply the brakes, causing it to swerve, he knew something was wrong. In order to avoid a collision with the Swartz car, Swisher swerved his automobile to the left, directly into the left side of the Thomasville man's car. Damage to both cars amounted to $450.

Swartz will be arrested for failing to yield the right of way while entering a main highway from a parking lot. The information will be made before Justice of the Peace Sylvia Craumer, Paradise township, York county. Private D. C. Allen, of the York substation, Pennsylvania state police conducted an investigation.

He asks that, in the event the personal property is not returned, he be remunerated for it, placing its value at $1,200.

The other civil case involves an appeal made by the Commonwealth in connection with damages to the property of Hobson D. and Pauline E. Crouse, Cumberland township. 400,000 MINERS BALLOT TODAY ON COAL STRIKE

By HAROLD W. WARD
Washington, March 28 (AP)—Four hundred thousand soft coal miners across the nation ballot today on whether to strike for John L. Lewis's contract demands, including a $60,000,000-a-year union royalty.

As the miners voted, on their own time, at mines or other central places, the government sought to avert a mine shutdown by speeding a new contract before Saturday midnight, the expiration hour, or by extending the present agreement until May 1.

The strike vote, required under the Smith-Connally War Labor Disputes Act because Lewis filed notice of a dispute in the industry, will be taken on this question:

"Do you wish to permit an interruption of war production in war time as a result of this dispute?"

Seek To Avert Stoppage
Both Lewis and the operators have indicated a work stoppage would be averted if possible, and an affirmative vote in today's election would not necessarily be followed by a walkout.

Tabulation of the results, expected to be overwhelmingly in favor of striking, probably will be completed by tomorrow morning.

Cost of the vote, to be conducted by the National Labor Relations Board has been estimated at $300,000.

Labor Secretary Perkins stepped into the bituminous picture personally late yesterday by conferring for two and a half hours with Lewis and the operators.

She said both sides had made brand new proposals, and that she had suggested an overall increase as a starting point. She did not disclose what it was.

Reject Extension
It was learned, meanwhile, that the operators had offered a flat $1.00 a day increase to the miners, compared to the 51 cents previously conceded them, but that Lewis scorned the offer.

Miss Perkins cheerily told reporters she was "not threatening the negotiators" but that "I expect them to settle by Saturday night."

She said she would determine today whether to rejoin the conferees.

The proposal of Interior Secretary Ickes that the present pact be extended at least until May 1—with any wage adjustments to be retroactive—was rejected by the operators.

They said they preferred an extension under different terms; that they would agree to continue the present bituminous contract until May 1, and begin paying at once the wage benefits, amounting to $3.06 a week, contained in their counterproposal of March 16. Lewis rejected those counter offers at the time.

Leaves From Diary Of War Correspondent

By HAL BOYLE
Bonn, Germany (AP)—The Russians opened a second western front today and bitter street fighting raged back and forth for half an hour.

It was hand to hand combat between four Russian "slave laborers" and three German civilian police. The Soviet forces came out on top with substantial military booty—three bicycles on which they disappeared over the horizon in great haste.

The engagement began when one of the four Russians, looking for an American "displaced persons center," saw three German policemen at an intersection and recognized one of them as a former overseer in a factory where the Russians had been compelled to work for three years.

Calls For Reserves
It was a golden opportunity—one the Russian had dreamed of—a chance to give his old straw boss a bit on his teutonic nose.

The Russian made a brief reconnaissance and then deployed in a frontal attack with a right to the kisser. The German staggered back and Stalin's one-man vanguard followed up with a right and a left to the body.

Dazed by the surprise attack, the German bellowed for all available reserves—and his two comrade cops pitched in. All the German forces were committed and the Russian was surrounded.

A Double Pincer
Then the other three Russians swept in from both sides in a double pincer envelopment. The Bonn street intersection became a minor Stalingrad. Fists flew and the Russians soon saw red—a lovely German red.

Two American military observers stood by, guiding convoys down a road to the Remagen bridgehead. They kept the convoys from running over the battlefield, but made no attempt to break up the fight.

"We were just told to direct traffic here, Mac," they explained to a by-stander.

Two photographers—Johnny Florea of Life magazine and Bill Allen of the Associated Press—arrived on the scene and promptly took up forward positions from which they filmed the historic encounter.

The Germans Ran

Holding onto bicycles with one hand, the Russians dipped into brief cases on the bikes and pulled out potatoes and bottled cherries which they threw at the Germans. The Germans reeled back from the impact of these deadly new weapons and potatoes and cherries rolled through the dusty streets. Bowled over by this final breakthrough the Germans ran toward the nearest cellars.

"They were yelling 'kamerad' and something about the Versailles treaty," said Florea.

The Russians speeded the rout by rocketing potato concentrations after them. Then they climbed on the captured bicycles and sped away.

If there is an odd gun in the next victory salute in Moscow it will be to chronicle the first Soviet tactical triumph on the Western front.

Service Command have pledged Brig. Gen. John M. Clark, commanding general at the MATSC, "a full and uninterrupted day's work on V-E Day." The pledges were in a colorfully bound volume of more than 200 pages.

The American Library association is to be commended for its proposed plan to use surplus war stock in an effort to improve libraries in rural areas, says The New York Times. Officials of the association believe that big transport trucks can be easily converted into bookmobiles to serve outlying districts where no library services are available. There are probably more than ten million books now in camp libraries in various parts of the world, many of which will be usable after victory.

All too few city dwellers realize the facts regarding library facilities for the nation as a whole. Of the 3,000 counties in the United States, 1,700 have no public libraries or else have only city libraries with no extension of service to farm families or those who live in small villages. Fewer than one-fourth of the nation's counties have regional service for those who live outside population centers.

The extension of library facilities to all rural areas is a project that deserves support. In the 1943-44 period ten states were reported as making contributions to further library aims. Forty-seven states have some type of state-sponsored commissions or agencies, but the common procedure is still to leave the support of library facilities to individual communities. The problem of disposing of surplus war goods is a complicated one, but it seems logical that the Library association can use many of the surplus books to excellent advantage in rural communities.

The American Automobile Association, with which the local motor club is affiliated, recently made the following suggestions for improvements of the post-war automobile:

More durable bumpers, even on the sides of cars, but of standardized heights.

Improvements in the ventilating system, as well as insulation to reduce noise.

Smoother-bodied car, with greater vision front and back, more durable windshield wipers, and one to be placed on the rear window.

Roomier interior, with adequate space for three passengers, including driver, in the front seat. Driver's seat should have up-and-down as well as fore and aft adjustability.

Three-door car, doing away with left rear door for reasons of safety and economy should receive serious consideration.

Effective defroster and larger, rear-view mirrors. Reduction of headlight glare through the use of polarized lights.

Drain-cock, fan belt, generator, water pump, and radiator hose connections should be more accessible, and better provision should be made for application of jack when necessary.

Present luggage compartments should be continued; so should the trend toward simple, durable upholstery. Consideration should be given to installation of a radio as part of the original equipment.

Recommit Bills On Registration

Harrisburg, March 28 (AP)—Five Senate-approved measures to change the period in which voters' registrations lapse went back to the House Elections Committee today for redrafting of amendments.

Recommitted despite Democratic opposition, the measures previously had been amended in the House so that failure to vote would result in suspension of voter enrollments instead of cancellation. Electors would be allowed to reinstate the registration any time within five years.

QUATRAINS
Wondering
I wonder if the good Lord knows
How frequently to war man goes,
Then boasts with arrogance and pride
That God and right are on his side?

Style
A bottle-washer sort of thing,
A fuzzy mop or salad ring!
I small and ask her: "What is that?"
Without a smile, she says: "A hat!"

Pessimist
"Oh make the most of now!" said he,
"For never happier you'll be!"
A dismal thought to youngsters told
For whom the years so much may hold.

Endless
A black mark 'gainst their names
I'd chalk

The tedious, bothersome folk who talk
Long distance on a local call.

Today's Talk

STANDING MOST ALONE
I confess to an increasing admiration for the character and achievements of Henry D. Thoreau, the author of "Walden," "Merimac River" and many other living books. I know of no other character so unique. His is worth long and sincere study.

One of the finest tributes to Thoreau was given by Emerson, which he delivered at Thoreau's funeral service in 1862. It may be read in the Modern Library Edition of Emerson's Essays and Writings. I will give two quotations: "He declined to give up his large ambition of knowledge and action for any narrow craft or profession, aiming at a much more comprehensive calling, the art of living well."

And here is the other quotation: "He chose to be rich by making his wants few, and supplying them himself." No wonder this man grew and grew, learned and created, leaving to posterity a rich hoard of great thinking. He depended upon himself for his inheritance—then passed on to the ages the increased product of this gift from his Creator. There is a pride in self-achievement that nothing else can supply. There is a constant growth of incentive and a rich feathering of faith about every new enterprise—to him who thinks and stands most alone.

Where but in a free land could such products in world usefulness as Henry Ford, Thoreau, Lincoln, Kettering or Henry Kaiser be produced? People here think in free air, and under a blue sky of uncensored expression. This Western world is the envy of all other parts of this globe because its ideals have been constructive, not destructive. And it means to put an end to the cruelty and wastefulness of war.

Every human being has before him, "without money and without price," the library of the world to consult. All out of doors is but one of its departments. Men and women are another part. Books are another—with the great classics priced at but a few pennies, or free for consultation in thousands of established libraries. There can be no excuse for ignorance!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "On Starting All Over"

NAZI ARMY IS 'WHIPPED' SAYS EISENHOWER

Paris, March 28 (AP) — Gen. Eisenhower says the German Army as a military force on the western front "is a whipped army," but that the extent of the Allied drive beyond the Rhine is limited at present by the problem of supply.

In a typically frank discussion with correspondents yesterday upon his return from the front, the Allied supreme commander declared that the tremendous victory achieved in the Rhineland does not bar the enemy from organizing a front at some point "where our maintenance is stretched to the limit."

"I am not writing off this war," he said. "No one knows what the German will do in his own country, and he is trying hard."

"No Negotiated Surrender"
"My honest opinion," he added, "is that there will be no negotiated unconditional surrender. There will be an imposed unconditional surrender."

"Between the Allies in Germany and Russia we will take over Germany. Whether the Germans know it or not, we will know it is unconditional surrender."

Eisenhower said that while pontoon bridges are being thrown across the Rhine in 10 hours, it takes time to build rail bridges, and lack of rail communications will limit the eastward drive for the present.

The Fellowship Of Prayer

Love Is Never Wasted: "Why was this waste of the ointment made?" Mark 14:4. Read Mark 14:1-9.

So gratitude gave its most precious possession in one lavish impulse and asked nothing in return. The deed hushed the room, the perfume filled the air and then they murmured, "why this waste?"

Ah, but love and gratitude are never wasted. Amidst our incredible prodigality they are a blessed economy. So much we spend buys only regrets. So much we try to keep, is lost. Only the gifts of the heart are permanent. They are treasured in recollection, they brighten shadowed lives, they enrich those who give, and bless those who receive. Beauty is never wasted, though it be only a poppy petal. Goodness is never wasted, though we cannot see its issue. Suffering bravely borne is never wasted nor any sacrifice which gives the last full measure of devotion.

Never therefore, be afraid to be prodigal in gratitude and tenderesses in the pure impulses of love, in any ministry of beauty or grace or any gift of self to any of God's causes. A Divine economy treasures and makes them immortal.

Prayer: O Thou, in Whose keeping what we seek or do is secure, we thank Thee for all those through whose gifts of love we have been healed. For every treasured memory of kindness which have brightened our pilgrim way, for every generous deed which has enriched our souls, we bless Thy name. May we withhold no gift in which another may be blessed. In His name who gave Himself. Amen.

Growing Brussels Sprouts

Brussels sprouts belong to the cabbage family of crops, which includes cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower, kale and others. And while all the members of this group are hardy, Brussels sprouts belong to the list in hardness. In the extreme south they are grown throughout the winter; in this latitude they may be started quite early in the spring and a late crop grown for storage in a cool cellar or an abandoned hotbed pit.

The edible parts of this vegetable consists of miniature cabbage heads which form in the leaf axils along the stem. If the first crop of heads are removed carefully, additional heads will appear. Plants may be set out before frost dangers are past and the last crop may be brought to harvesting stage even after the first light frosts and freezes of autumn.

Brussels sprouts prefer a deeply mellow, well-drained loam suitable for cabbage and other related crucifer crops, particularly a loam known to be safely alkaline. Well decomposed manure turned under deeply is beneficial, but this should be done at least a week or two before transplanting time. From 600 to 1,000 pounds of complete fertilizer per acre is a safe rate of fertilization, broadcast and worked into the top soil. After plants are set out and subsequent growth slows up, a side dressing of nitrate of soda will hasten growth.

Sow Early Under Glass

For early plants sow seed under glass within the next few days and later shift the tiny seedlings to individual pots or plant bands and place the containers in a sunny coldframe until time to make the final transplanting to their growing site. Use of individual plant containers prevents crowding and the resultant development of spindly plants. Too, transplanting can be done without disturbing root growth and thereby permits gaining of several days over ordinary methods of pulling plants from their bed for transplanting.

Space plants 12 to 18 inches apart in rows 24 to 30 inches wide. Sow seed in mid-June for plants for the last crop, which should be set out by the middle to latter part of July.

The cabbage aphid is perhaps the most troublesome insect pest of Brussels sprouts in this region. It

Prisoner Of Nazis May Run For Judge

Harrisburg, March 28 (AP) — A bill designed to place the name of Lt. Col. Linus Hoban, Lackawanna jurist now a prisoner of war in Germany, on the ballot in the primary election comes up for a vote in the House today.

Offered by Rep. William J. Stonier (R., Lackawanna), the measure would permit the chairman of a political party to sign the affidavit of a nomination petition of a candidate for judge. Hoban, a Democrat, is on a leave of absence from the Lackawanna bench, his term expiring next year.

STALEMATE ON WORKMAN'S BILL

Harrisburg, March 28 (AP) — A stalemate between labor and industry on liberalization of Workmen's compensation rates opened the way today for Governor Martin to recommend new rates to the general assembly.

Business and union leaders held three conferences with Secretary William H. Chestnut of Labor and Industry, seeking to set rates suitable to both sides.

"I x x x regret they are unable to agree," said Martin. "But I do believe the meetings have accomplished much good. I will submit legislation for the consideration of the legislature."

The governor at the opening assembly session called for more liberal unemployment and Workmen's compensation and occupational disease acts, declaring he would make a proposal himself if labor and industry were unable to agree on a joint recommendation. He set this week as the deadline for an agreement.

Legislation supported by the AFL, CIO, United Mine Workers and railroad brotherhoods ask a boost in jobless benefits from $18 to $22 weekly with similar increases in workmen's compensation.

Both sides said there was a sincere effort to agree on workmen's compensation and that they regretted failure. Labor has insisted publicly on a $22 weekly maximum for total disability with industry reported favoring a $20 top.

Confusion Reigns In FEPA Proceedings

Harrisburg, March 28 (AP)—All was confusion today in the Senate Republican majority's consideration of fair employment practices legislation.

The Republican sponsor of one fair practices bill, Sen. A. Evans Kephart, of Philadelphia, had suddenly thrown his support to an opposition bill sponsored by a Democrat, Rep. Homer S. Brown, Allegheny.

"The situation is so confused that we will let things settle a bit" before charting a new course, said Republican Floor Leader Weldon B. Heyburn.

Kephart's bill would assign to the state Labor Relations Board the job of preventing discrimination in employment because of race, color or creed.

Brown's bill would create a separate commission to do the job.

Governor Martin and most Republicans favored the idea of Kephart's bill. Martin had said it would be too expensive to have a separate commission do the work.

PYMATUNING BILL

Harrisburg, March 28 (AP) — Chairman Montgomery F. Crowe (R., Monroe), said the Senate Forestry and Waters and Game and Fish Committee will meet Thursday to vote on releasing a House-approved bill permitting operation of motor boats on Pymatuning lake. Conflicting views on effect of the plan were presented at a hearing yesterday.

CITES PARALLEL BETWEEN FDR'S, WILSON'S WORDS

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, March 28 (AP)—Because it is history repeating itself, perhaps, there is an amazing similarity between the words of President Roosevelt this week and of President Woodrow Wilson 24 years ago.

Both men were pleading with Congress for low tariffs so that this nation and the other nations of the world could trade without the economic barriers that strangle flow of goods.

They said—
Wilson: "Changes of a very radical nature have taken place. The United States has become a great creditor nation."

Roosevelt: "We must recognize, too, that we are now a creditor country and are destined to be for some time to come."

"Prepare To Buy"
Wilson: "If we wish to have Europe settle her debts, governmental and commercial, we must be prepared to buy from her."

Roosevelt: "Unless we make it possible for Americans to buy goods and services widely and readily in the markets of the world, it will be impossible for other countries to pay what is owed us."

Wilson: "If we wish to assist Europe and ourselves by the export either of food or raw materials or finished products we must be prepared to welcome commodities which we need * * *"

Roosevelt: "Trade is fundamental to the prosperity of nations, as it is to individuals."

Wilson: "Clearly, this is no time for the erection here of high-trade barriers."

Trade Barriers
Roosevelt: "The reciprocal trade agreement program represents a sustained effort to reduce the barriers which the nations of the world maintained against each other's trade."

This is the story behind those statements.

In 1921 the first World War in Europe was over. American farmers and industrialists, enormously expanded to win that war, were bitterly opposed to any purchases from abroad.

And the Republican Congress—Republicans traditionally have been for high protective tariffs—passed a temporary tariff to protect American agriculture from European competition.

Wilson, just before leaving office, vetoed that tariff act and sent to Congress a veto message which contained the quotations given above.

He went out of office. In 1922 a Republican Congress passed the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill, the highest in our history. And in 1930 another Republican Congress passed the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, still higher.

Other nations retaliated and erected high tariff walls of their own.

World trade broke down. The world went into chaos.

Reciprocal Trade
Now we come to 1945. The European war is almost over. Europe is destitute. We face again the same situation that America faced in Wilson's time.

High tariffs can shut off Europe's products. But in the meantime this happened: A Democratic Congress in 1934 passed the reciprocal trade agreements act.

This enabled this country to cut its tariffs as much as 50 per cent to deal with nations which agreed to cut their tariffs an equal amount to deal with us.

This act had to be renewed every few years. If it is not renewed in June it will collapse. President Roosevelt this week, in the quotes given above, asked Congress to renew the act.

He did more: He asked permission to reduce the tariffs even more than they have been cut.

Taxes On Utilities' Receipts Renewed

Harrisburg, March 28 (AP)—Emergency taxes on cigarettes and gross receipts of utilities were renewed for another two years today under legislation signed by Governor Martin.

The Governor also approved a bill for appointment of a board of trustees to operate the Pennsylvania Industrial school at nearby Camp Hill, transferring control from the state Welfare Department.

100,000 FOR CANCER

Harrisburg, March 28 (AP)—A $100,000 appropriation to the state Department of Health for cancer research received Senate approval and went to the House yesterday.

Nazi Retreat In Italy 'Inevitable'

Rome, March 28 (AP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark, the Allied commander in Italy, declared today that a German retreat northward was inevitable "sooner or later" and ordered patriots to stand by to strike at a moment's notice to hamper the withdrawal.

The Germans inevitably will retreat sooner or later, leaving Fascist troops to cover their rear," Clark said.

He declared it was certain that patriots in the central Apennine area would "be called upon to be of specific assistance to my armies shortly."

The entire Italian front was quiet as Clark broadcast his message. Only a few patrol skirmishes broke the monotony of a March drizzle.

WARNS AGAINST ANY PREMATURE PEACE REPORTS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

(Associated Press War Analyst)

While the Allied offensive out of the Rhineland is operating under a partial news blackout for security reasons, reports continue to give us a picture of a fast moving front whose very fluidity bespeaks the extent of the disaster which the Allies are piling onto the Germans.

Obviously we are getting close to the end of the conflict. However, let's take a lesson from yesterday's peace-stampede which swept the United States and not have another premature celebration such as we had in the last war.

As General Eisenhower said yesterday, the German force on the Western front "is a whipped army" — but there's "damn tough fighting ahead." That's our cue to take it easy, though we can be happy in the knowledge that things are going so well that Nazidom's complete collapse isn't far off.

Problem of Supply

What we must recognize is that you can't throw seven Allied armies across one of the world's greatest rivers and expect them to do a non-stop sprint to Berlin or the Russian front like a runner doing a hundred-yard dash.

General Ike said yesterday that the extent of the Allied thrust beyond the Rhine is limited at present by the problem of supply. The speed of our advance depends heavily on supplies and the build up of the seven armies.

The Rhine still remains a tremendous impediment movement, and the railroad bridges are destroyed, forcing us to depend on pontoons and trucks. Our communications already are greatly extended, and this handicap will grow as the rapid advance continues.

In short, this is a difficult movement for Eisenhower's offensive. Having achieved that amazing crossing of the Rhine—one of the great military feats of history—we must now get reorganized for the final onslaught. And in this connection it should be noted that we are going into hostile territory where, if we get no active opposition from an unfriendly population, the people at least won't give us the support which we've been getting in freed Allied territory.

May Cut Reich in Two

While Hitler's forces in the west are indeed "whipped," Eisenhower doesn't preclude the possibility that they will organize a front at some place "where our maintenance is stretched to the limit"—that question of supplies again. The Nazis are up against the problem of finding time to reorganize for a stand and in this connection they are faced with the danger that one of our speeding armies may be able to cut the Reich in two from west to east. The broad strategy of the Allied drive is this:

On the far northern flank the Canadians, British and U. S. Ninth Army have been assigned the task of knocking out the great industrial Ruhr, and are trying to draw Nazi Field Marshal Kesselring's northern army into a battle of annihilation. On their south, the U. S. First Army is heading hell-for-leather out of its Remagen bridgehead toward Berlin with the idea of cutting Germany in halves and thus preventing the German troops in the north from retreating to Hitler's Alpine last-stand defenses in the south.

General Patton's Third Army still further south is running interference for the First, and the U. S. Seventh is on Patton's right flank. The news blackout surrounding Patton makes guess-work hazardous, but it's possible he may strike south-eastward for a junction with the Russians, thus further ham-stringing Hitler's preparations for a last ditch stand in the Alps.

Flashes Of Life

NEW "ODER" CROSSING

Albany, N. Y. (AP)—Motorists rubbed their eyes in disbelief, then broke all records inclosing automobile windows as a convoy of skunks, reported to have numbered at least 300, crossed the four-lane Albany-Schenectady road.

It was believed that brush fires drove the skunks from their lairs.

REEL TO REAL

Miami, Fla. (AP)—A featured player in westerns and action films, Maj. Gordon Jones' last picture before he was called to active duty in 1942 was "The Flying Tigers."

Commented Jones, back from 27 months overseas as an infantry officer and awaiting reassignment: "Gosh, I sure was a brave flier in that picture."

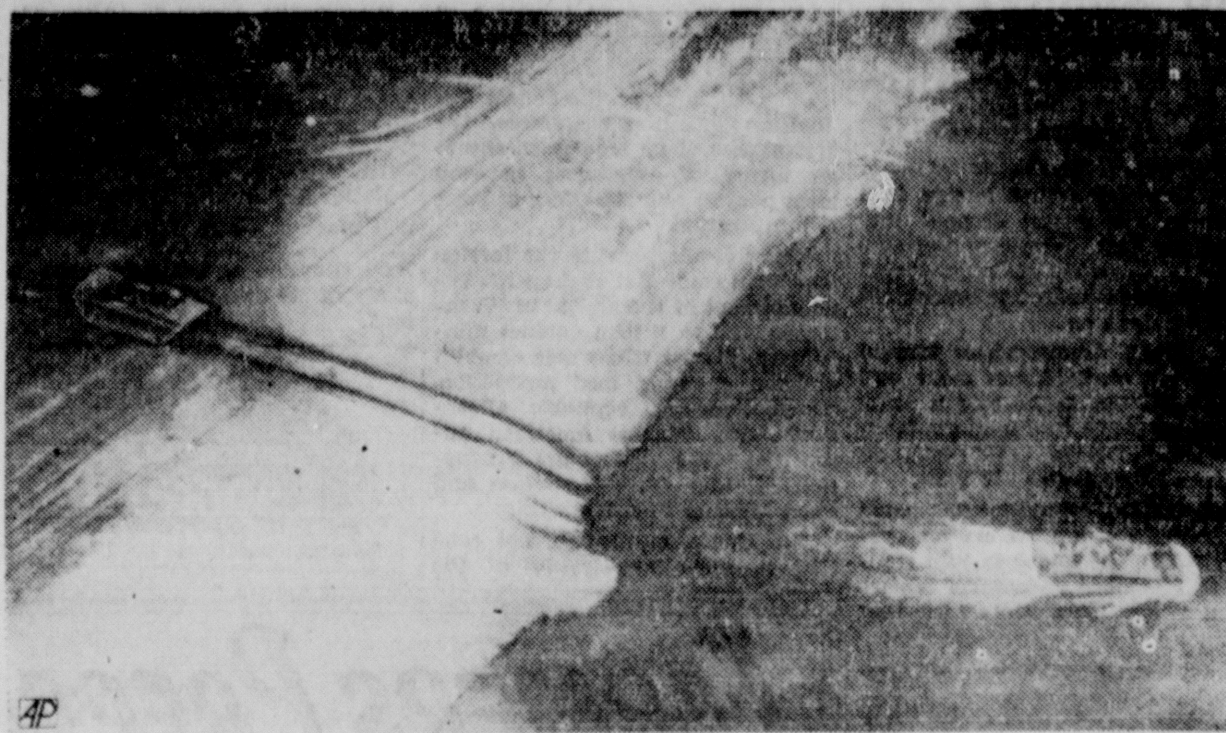

OH!

Los Angeles (AP)—Neighborhood kids rushed to see what they could salvage when a huge produce truck tipped over at the curb.

Scurrying around the broken crates, the boys learned the truck carried spinach—18 tons of it.

New York, March 28 (AP)—In an effort to avoid stalling tactics, the National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada yesterday eliminated the rule calling for cancellation of a timeout when the team that calls time sends in a sub within 30 seconds. Six minor changes were made.

British Tanks Storm Across Rhine River

A British amphibious tank (lower right) leaves the west bank of the Rhine river, headed east, as it participates in the March 24th crossings of the river barrier. Another tank follows closely behind to help reinforce the established bridgeheads. This British official photo, made from a low flying RAF plane, was radioed to New York.

Smoke Screen Laid Over Rhine

U. S. Army units lay down a smoke screen over the Rhine river to screen off crossings of Allied troops. Here smoke bank drifts over the water. The caption accompanying this photo did not reveal site of the smoke screen. (AP Wirephoto via Signal Corps radio.)

GETTYSBURG, PA.

TO THE PEOPLE OF PENNSYLVANIA:

A serious shortage of paper exists in the United States. Waste paper is critically needed for the manufacture of thousands of articles of war supplies, as well as for containers for blood plasma, drugs, food and munitions for the armed services overseas.

Pennsylvania's manufacturers of paper and paperboard have been forced to shut down their plants from time to time in recent weeks for lack of waste paper.

Many months ago the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania officially inaugurated a conservation and salvage program which has resulted in the saving of thousands of tons of paper and the salvaging of more than 4,000 tons of waste paper by State departments, boards and institutions under the Governor.

The Salvage Committee of the State Council of Defense and the Conservation and Salvage Division of the War Production Board, in an effort to make the greatest and most necessary use of the scant supplies of paper now in the stocks of Pennsylvania's industries, merchants and business houses, have requested the voluntary observance of a Paper Holiday throughout the State for the period of two months, beginning April 1, 1945.

To aid in bringing about a speedy victory by our armed forces, I heartily concur in this program and do hereby declare a Paper Holiday for the months of April and May, 1945, in and for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will continue to conserve paper in every possible way, and to salvage all waste paper. We hereby call upon all patriotic citizens of this Commonwealth to conserve the use of paper of all kinds, to carry merchandise unwrapped, and to save and turn in to local salvage collections all newspapers, magazines, bags, wrapping paper, cartons, boxes, cereal and cigarette containers, and clean waste basket paper of every kind for the war salvage program. Your waste paper may save some brave boy's life.

Very sincerely,

Edward Martin
MARCH 15, 1945 Governor of Pennsylvania

Major General Edward Martin, Wartime Governor of Pennsylvania, declares a PAPER HOLIDAY throughout April and May

WHAT IS A PAPER HOLIDAY? During April and May, retail merchants and the public will have the opportunity to practice statewide cooperation in relieving the critical paper situation. Merchants will use no bags or wrapping paper except where absolutely necessary for sanitary and protective purposes. Customers will carry their purchases unwrapped and provide their own shopping bags.

WHY HAVE A PAPER HOLIDAY? Well over 50 percent of our paper production goes to our armed forces as containers for blood plasma, rations and ammunition, and as other vitally needed war items. This year we face a shortage of some 3,000,000 tons of paper. America can and will meet this shortage — by salvaging 2,000,000 tons and by conserving 1,000,000 tons of paper.

IT'S EVERYBODY'S PAPER HOLIDAY! Every man, woman and child in Pennsylvania — the State Government, industry, business — merchants, housewives, and school children — everyone must help in this national emergency! "It is absolutely essential that every citizen of this country take immediate steps to reduce the amount of paper consumed by him and his family as drastically, if not more drastically, than we have already reduced our gasoline, our travel, our meats and canned foods!" declared W. T. Hoyt, Director of the Conservation and Salvage Division of the War Production Board.

DON'T BURN ANY PAPER — SALVAGE IT! As Governor Martin points out, waste paper may save some brave boy's life — maybe your boy! Separate and tie in bundles: 1.

Waste basket scraps. 2. Corrugated boxes, brown paper and bags. 3. Magazines and books. 4. Newspapers. Save every old cigarette package, letters and envelopes. Clean out the dead files in your office. Save every scrap of paper — turn it all in for salvage!

WASTE PAPER COLLECTIONS IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Regular waste paper collections take place in every Pennsylvania community under the direction of the Salvage Committees of County and Local Councils of Defense. In many places they receive the assistance of the Boy Scouts, the Society of the 28th Division, Rural Mail Carriers, Schools, Boys' Clubs, Charities, Service Clubs, Junior Chambers of Commerce and Waste Material Dealers. Money received from selling donated waste paper is used locally in each community for war purposes, charities, hospitals, other worthy projects and to buy little extras for wounded veterans.

PENNSYLVANIA'S GOAL — 66,000 TONS A MONTH!

Every person in Pennsylvania must turn in an average of 13½ pounds of waste paper each month to meet our State Quota. It isn't much to ask — a stack of newspapers as high as a broomstick weighs 100 pounds! But it must be done to keep Pennsylvania's paper mills operating full time to supply our fighting men. Every time you see a scrap of paper, remember — over 700,000 vital war items are made or wrapped with paper! Conserve paper — salvage paper — for Victory!

DON'T BURN ANY PAPER — SALVAGE IT!

Jap small arms swept over our foxhole and we could see the enemy not far in front of us. But the Americans kept pressing forward in a courageous drive.

After his wound was treated, Lt. Col. Fry remained on the beach for 20 days. He assisted with burials and did other work and then returned to the front. He arrived in the States on March 10th.

We all work together and serve in every capacity possible. Each soldier is buried according to the ritual of his own faith and there is no religious bickering among the troops or the chaplains.

Second Marriage

By EVELYN MURRAY CAMPBELL

YESTERDAY: Carey laughs when Cynthia offers the garden house to the Brandons. They wouldn't waste the time it takes to get to the plant, he retorts. Slowly but surely a coolness grows up between them. Cynthia, fearing that he would find out that she was not really sick but afraid of what people would say about her marrying a younger man while she had a married daughter, decides to get up. She takes more interest in her surroundings and after a talk with Chester, provides him with the money to open his own apartment without Vera's knowledge. Her friend, Anne Holt visits her and tells her that she had taken a chance that even she would not take, marrying a younger man. "Cynthia," she says, "you need a tonic."

Chapter 20

Anne lighted one of her interminable brown paper cigarettes. "So you're going through that phase? It doesn't usually come so soon, but then you're a brainy woman. But it isn't fatal." Cynthia's eyes, unveiled for a moment, asked why and her mentor went on. "There's a way of getting around most things," Anne told her. "Carey didn't marry you for a soft spot, or for social prestige or any of those foolish things. He loved you. You have some but not enough of them all to make it worth his while. And he'll go on loving you as if he was fifty instead of thirty if you'll be the woman he fell in love with up at the lake last summer—"

Cynthia repeated after her. "Be the woman? But I am I haven't changed I adore him!" "Of course you do. Maybe you shouldn't. Adoring people gets awfully tiresome. They demand so much—usually their own way. I didn't mention adoring. I said be the same woman, you'll remember."

Cynthia looked helpless. "I don't follow you, Anne. I must be getting on to the dumb age."

Anne gave her a swift, calculating glance and spoke of other things. "I've had a lovely summer but I think I'll settle down in the old town and do Red Cross work this winter," she said, admiring her charming legs, slim ankles, expensive shod. "I've always been fond of the place I went to school—a sign of age on my part, too—There are so many charming people here and I can easily lie about the classes I was in."

"I hope you will," Cynthia gave money to the Red Cross every month but she had never sewed woolsen skirts and nightgowns for unknown people in the far corners of the earth. They seemed ephemeral. Red Cross to her meant wounds and sickness and heroic nurses facing horrors. She shuddered.

"I like your Ned Almon," Anne mused. "Why didn't you fall in love with him? Then you wouldn't be tortured by inhibitions." "You don't plan to fall in love," Cynthia sighed. "It just takes you by the hair and yanks you around." Anne smiled. "You don't fall in love if you have control. Now this Ned of yours—I think I'll marry him myself."

Cynthia's laugh had a hollow note to its merriness. A woman feels like that when someone takes an old lover and builds him up to a husband.

"I wish you luck!" she cried gaily. "Ned is as real as good roast beef." "I like roast beef," Anne was not mused. "I may bring out the romance in him, at that. It has to be cultivated, you know, in all the stages."

Anne was so wise. The Vera debacle came a little later. It came unheralded. Chester had four days to get himself in order but it transpired that he and Vera had known it was coming only they hadn't mentioned it to Cynthia.

"You'll come home and wait, of course," Cynthia cried. "Darling!" I'll be glad to have you back. You and Chester will both have time to grow while you're apart."

"I won't get over loving him if that's what you mean," Vera said with her side long Egyptian look. "And I won't come home."

"You'll stay with Maud, then," Cynthia hid the hurt successfully. "You can't live alone—at your age."

"Chester couldn't support me on twenty-one per.," Vera's smile flickered and was never real. "Uncle Sam must think that wives go back into the work for the duration."

Chester had never supported her but she didn't know that, thank heaven. Cynthia thought of the monthly check she had signed. It would be a lot easier with Vera living at home but she wouldn't think of that.

Time vanished in a whirl of busy hours. Chester was packing his kit. Awkward and shaky at first but growing more assured as the time grew near. Cynthia managed a last talk with the long legged boy who yesterday was coming home from high school with Vera for lemonade and cookies fed by Maud.

"You mustn't worry about her. She'll have everything she wants." That was wrong somehow. He stared at her. "I won't worry—now. It's been fine but not exactly the way we wanted it. I feel differently about it now—joining up. I mean. The whole set up is different."

"I'm glad if I've helped," Cynthia said. He kept on staring. "Oh, you were swell, Mrs. Winslow. But I mean talking it over with Carey. I talked to him about the army or he talked to me whatever you want to put it. He came over to our place one evening and when he went away, Vera and I—Carey just knows, that's all."

"Vera was there when Carey came?" "Sure, she was there. We all talked together." After that the boy shut up like a clam.

So she had been left out. Why hadn't Carey asked her to go along and see the children in their dark hour? Vera disliked him; she had sworn it time and again, yet he was the one to give them safe going and make the way seem a little smoother. What could Carey do that she couldn't have done?

It didn't add up right because Vera wouldn't come home. She stayed with Maud for a few days and when Cynthia began to go out with them occasionally, to the theater or to dinners where she met her old friends. These asked about Carey with the polite indifference of someone whose name had been in the papers and later with the knowing looks people assume when they scent trouble in the offing.

Vera knew. Chester had told her before he went away.

Chapter 21

Vera was furious. "What right had you to interfere with us? You spoiled everything. I was so happy with Chester in our little place. I thought it was ours—and it was yours—yours—I! You were paying for it!"

"How can you be so cruel, so unjust, Vera? I only wanted you to be happy—to help you."

"Happy in your way. Helped in your way. All yours."

"But—but it was the only way I could—"

"I had Chester—all I wanted. But you wouldn't let us find our own way. It had to be yours."

An ugly, tragic little drama in which inhibitions got the upper hand and played it out. Cynthia went away feeling sore and beaten and the next day Maud told her that Vera had gone away to stay with friends. She was going to find herself a job and earn her own money, Maud said, bursting into tears.

The rains came early. The skies wept for the misery of the world and Cynthia wept with them, in her secret heart where no one could see.

Where had happiness gone? There had been no material change in the way of their lives yet Vera had gone as surely as Vera.

"Do you want to see her?" he asked.

"Not until she comes to me," Cynthia said proudly and added against her will. "You know where she is?"

"Yes. Do you suppose if I didn't—? Let it go." It was as if he found her stupid, hard to explain to.

She felt herself put in the wrong and was unable to

MACK ASSERTS ATHLETICS WILL BE CONTENDERS

New York, March 28 (AP)—Connie Mack, 82-year-old leader of the Philadelphia Athletics, shook his finger at his players at a Frederick, Md., civic dinner yesterday. He scolded them for failing to get into satisfactory condition.

Connie went on to say, however, that his A's should be an American league pennant contender, but "I don't think we have the power" to win the flag.

Other training camp items:
Philadelphia Phillies — Pitcher Charles Schanz was reported en route to camp, Southpaw Chet Covington voluntarily retired.

Detroit Tigers, first baseman Rudy York hit two balls over the fence in his first day of batting practice.

Boston Braves—Johnny Hutchings and Jim Wallace were named to pitch against Washington Senators today.

Boston Red Sox — Manager Joe Cronin has eyes glued to every task that pulls to camp. He is expecting Shortstop Skeeter Newsome.

New York Giants — Outfielder Johnny Rucker and Pitcher Jack Brewer reported at Lakewood, N. J. camp.

Cleveland Indians — Pitchers Red Embree and Pete Center are expected to report this week-end.

Cards Show Power

St. Louis Cardinals — Most of regulars banded together for 22-0 triumph over Yankees, Mort Cooper, Blix Donnelly and Max Lanier pitched.

St. Louis Browns — Nelson Potter expected to make first pitching start of season against Toledo today.

Pittsburgh Pirates — Team plays first exhibition game against Muncie today with Fred Ostermueller slated to start.

Chicago White Sox — Manager Jimmy Dykes picked probable batting order for opening game; Wally Moses, rf; Oris Hockett, cf; Johnny Dickshot, lf; Bill Nagel, 1b; Floyd Baker, 3b; Dan Reynolds, ss; Vince Castino, c, and Leroy Schalk, 2b with pitcher undecided.

Chicago Cubs — Manager Charley Grimm was advised that Cincinnati Reds, now training at Bloomington, would shift to French Lick, Ind., on Monday so teams could play a series of exhibitions.

New York Yankees — Hank Borow allowed four runs in his first three innings of pitching in practice game at Atlantic City.

Hershey Eliminates Caps From Finals

(By The Associated Press)
The Hershey Bears last night successfully concluded their semi-final series with Indianapolis in the American Hockey league playoffs, eliminating the visiting Caps with a 3 to 2 victory that qualified them for the finals against the winner of the Cleveland-Buffalo series.

The fighting Buffalo Bisons, refusing to give up their quest for a third straight possession of the Calder cup trophy, staved off elimination in their series with Cleveland by defeating the Barons, 5 to 3. Cleveland still needs one victory. They now lead in points, 6-4, with three triumphs and two losses.

Hershey, recording their fourth win in five games with the Caps, was runner-up in the eastern division's regular season race, while Indianapolis barely squeezed into second place in the western group. Buffalo and Cleveland were tops in the eastern and western divisions, respectively.

Durocher Makes Predictions For Bums

Bear Mountain, N. Y., March 28 (AP)—Cheer up, Dodger fans, dem bums of Brooklyn may not win the pennant this year, but they are going to finish in the first division.

Manager Leo Durocher intimated as much today as the Dodgers wound up their second week of spring training. While refusing to predict where his team will finish, loquacious Leo insisted his club was as good as four other outfits in the national league, "and if hustle means anything we ought to beat them out."

On paper it appears Durocher may have been whistling in the dark, for the Brooklyn situation could be summed up in one phrase—long on material with 94 players in camp, but short on talent. Regardless, Leo declared the Dodgers are greatly improved.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, March 28 (AP)—The same day a communique reported the Sixth Infantry division was destroying Jap strong points on Luzon, a letter arrived from Sgt. Paul Morrison, editor of the "Cockatoo"—the mimeographed paper that was born a year ago when the Sixth was in New Guinea. Here it is:

"There is very little sports activity in our division at present because we are in the thick of the fighting here in the Philippines. The papers may not list much activity because the major objectives have already been accomplished, but don't let anyone kid you that the fighting is over. Once in a while in the rear areas you see a couple of fellows tossing a baseball around but that is the extent of sports. I'm in the rear echelon of Headquarters and in the last town we were stationed in a few fellows took advantage of a tennis court which the town boasted. I imagine that is the first such exercise they've had in months."

FIGHTING FANS

"We still follow the sports news closely via radio and clippings we receive," Paul continues. "The Cockatoo is only a two-page news sheet now but we still manage to have a few lines of sport each day."

Space is so valuable that we don't carry anything but scores and brief items, but at least it keeps the fellows posted on their favorites and lets them know that some sport events are still going on back there. Haven't heard any reaction to the ban against horse racing but, of course, most of our boys are from the middle west and haven't followed the ponies to any great extent. I think most of the fellows want to see sports continued, but they don't want any particular favors shown those who are participating. If they remain out of the armed forces by virtue of some legitimate reason, O. K. but only under those conditions."

I envy your garden diet and wish I could relieve you of a few assignments. It's been some time since I've seen an organized sporting event, other than our own division leagues. Unfortunately, none of the touring troupes have appeared in our area. We keep hoping that one of them will hit the Sixth division."

A PLUG FOR TUG

"Wonder when they'll name a successor to Landis?" Morrison asks (and so do we all). "They should be taking care of that. Was pleased with the selection of Tag Wilson as Big Ten director. I'm a Drake U. man and of course like to see our old timers get ahead, but then I believe that Wilson is about the best they could have named for the post, anyway."

Allentown Wins Catholic Title

Pittsburgh, March 28 (AP)—Allentown, apparently the hottest of basketball hotbeds in Pennsylvania, turned up today with another state championship—the second in less than a week.

Allentown Central Catholic, scoring two electrifying field goals with less than a minute to play, eked out a 41-38 conquest over Pittsburgh Central Catholic here last night to nail the class A title of the Pennsylvania Catholic Basketball League.

Last Saturday Allentown first brushed aside Donora, western finalist, to enmesh the PIAA class A laurels.

WCTU REQUESTS

Evanston, Ill., March 28 (AP)—A federal ban on future liquor distilling "holidays," and a curb on beer making, to conserve grain for the duration of wartime food shortages, were urged today by Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

GREATEST SHOW ON ROAD AGAIN

Sarasota, Fla., March 28 (AP)—The "greatest show on earth" is on the road—two red and gold trains loaded with lions and tigers and acrobats and aerialists.

The show has its grand opening in Madison Square Garden in New York April 4, and the trains steamed out from winter quarters here yesterday.

But President Robert Ringling of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus says the show can't go on tour after the New York engagement unless six key officials under prison sentences continue on the job.

The officials were sentenced to prison for involuntary manslaughter in connection with the Hartford, Conn., fire last July 6 in which 168 spectators lost their lives.

At Hartford State Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn said his information was that the circus has every intention of going on tour.

A hearing will be held in Hartford Monday on the circus officials' application to withdraw their pleas of no contest, which led to the sentences.

DePaul Faces Aggies For National Title

New York, March 28 (AP)—It will be DePaul vs. the Oklahoma Aggies and 6 foot 9 George Mikan vs. 7-foot Bob Kurland for the mythical national collegiate basketball championship as the 1945 cage season ends at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

The Aggies won the right to battle for the generally recognized national title by whipping New York university, 49 to 45, for the NCAA championship before 18,034 at the Garden last night. DePaul previously had won the Garden national invitation tourney by beating Bowling Green of Ohio, 71-54.

The game will be the second between the two teams, DePaul having won a 48-46 triumph over the Aggies in Chicago during the regular season. In a preliminary, Bowling Green meets NYU.

Toronto Leafs Pull Surprise On Montreal

The surprising Toronto Maple Leafs are on the verge of scoring the upset of the National Hockey league season. They need only one more victory to eliminate the Champion Montreal Canadiens, beaten only 17 times in 113 starts during the last two years, from the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The Leafs took a commanding 3 to 1 lead in games over Montreal in their semi-final series by beating the Canadiens, 4 to 3, in an overtime struggle before 13,306 last night on the Toronto ice.

The other semi-final series saw Detroit's Red Wings scoring their second straight 3-2 decision over the Boston Bruins, knotting the set at four points apiece. The game was played at Boston before 13,500.

New York, March 28 (AP)—Joe Baksi, odds-on favorite to whip Lou Nova in their 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden Friday night, weighed 209 pounds after his workout yesterday. Nova tipped the scales at 202.

Philadelphia, March 28 (AP)—Welker Cochran, world three cushion billiard champion, defeated former champion Willie Hoppe, 60-58, last night in the 20th block of their championship tournament, reducing Hoppe's lead to 1070-994. Hoppe won the afternoon block, 60-28.

tion of wartime food shortages, were urged today by Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.
